3 Appearances Daily of the Mechanical Wax Figure

All this week there will be three appearances daily of the mechanical wax figure. The figure will appear in our big Arcade window (the one nearest the Mills Building) as follows:

> 10:00 to 10:30 a. m. 4:00 to 4:30 p. m. 7:30 to 8:00 p. m. Is It Alive?

People who saw the mechanical figure yesterday are undecided whether it is alive or just a wax dummy. Some people argue that nothing alive sould so perfectly imitate the movements and appearance of a mechanical wax figure. Other people say that a mere mechanical contrivance would be kept on exhibition continuously and not for just half an hour at a time. Come and see and judge for yourself. There will be three appearances daily, as noted above, in our big Arcade window.

EL PASO WIDELY ADVERTISED CITY

Done Much to Place It Before the World.

Two and one-half years ago El Paso was hardly known," said Chas. M. Gibsen, a local architect. "I believe I am safe in saying that not one person in 180 outside of this immediate vicinity could tell you anything of the city, except that it was located away out on the border, but of no particular importance," he continued.

"However, the immense advertising which El Paso has received through the Taft-Diaz meeting and the present Mexican troubles is almost beyond our realization. This fact was very clearly brought to my attention today in a letter from Col. Geo. W. Steele, governor of the National Soldiers' home at Marion, Ind. a part of which read as follows:

"There is no better advertised town

E. D. Sherwin Gives First Hand Impressions of Probable Site of Big Battle.

"Torreon it garrisoned by not fewer than 6,500 or 7,000 men," said E. D. Sherwin, a well-known business man of that city, as he stood in the office of H. B. Stevens, Monday morning, while the clerks were trying to locate a suitable house in which he might live till the troubles in Mexico blow over. "I left there last Wednesday at noon and was only one of possibly 5,900 foreigners who left Torreon to be out of the way when the big battle of the present revolution is fought and which we believe will be fought at of near Torreon.

"How the 'Amarillos' and 'Azules' will stand up under fire is not known. It is not believed they will stand, but they can be used to fight from barricades, while the regulars stand the brunt of attack.

Being Supplied With Munificans.

"I know that the federals are well supplied with all kinds of artillery and ammunition therefor. While Latood at the station Wednesday morning I saw six heavy guns so big they had to be carried on flet cars, and I don't suppose I saw all of them. Besides, I saw several howitzers, several small fleid guns and any number of rapid fire and machine guns. The stuff I am speaking about was what had come up by train with Blanquette's army that morning, and is in addition to the artillery brought by Col. Salas and Col. Aubert, and which was used with such telling effect in the battle at Gomez Palacios last Sunday, when about 40 men were killed.
